

ARIZONA STATE LAW JOURNAL

The Arizona State Law Journal is the flagship law journal at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law. The purpose of the Arizona State Law Journal is to produce, edit, and publish high-quality works of legal scholarship. The operational and editorial functions of the Journal are managed by our student members. For those eligible, the Journal provides one of the finest available avenues for advancing legal education. Its work contributes to each student's intellectual advancement, the development of law, the legal profession, and the stature of the College of Law.

The Journal publishes at least four issues each year, featuring articles written by top scholars, as well as student-authored works on cutting-edge areas of the law. Students who are selected to serve as Staff Writers during their second year have the opportunity to become Editors during their third year. Journal membership is highly respected by employers, and it is often considered a must for students who wish to obtain a judicial clerkship or enter academia.

Each year the Journal invites 32 students to join. The 15 highest ranking 1Ls are sent an invitation, and the remaining 17 students are chosen through the Write-On Exam. The Exam includes a closed-universe memorandum and a Bluebook citation quiz which consists of approximately 50 multiple-choice questions. The breakdown for the Write-On Exam score is 45% GPA, 25% written problem, 25% Bluebook quiz, and 5% legal writing grades.

CURRENT AND UPCOMING ISSUES

This year we published a special issue on emerging issues in international law. The Forefront of International Law symposium, published in September 2017, featured pieces by noted international law scholars, including:

- ◆ Gabriella Blum of Harvard Law, Prizeless Wars, Invisible Victories: The Modern Goals of Armed Conflict;
- ◆ Daniel Bodansky of Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law, Court of Justice in Addressing Climate Change: Some Preliminary Reflections;
- ◆ Ashley Deeks of Virginia Law, A (Qualified) Defense of Secret Agreements;
- ◆ Eric Posner of Chicago Law, Liberal Internationalism and the Populist Backlash;
- ◆ Alan Sykes of Stanford Law, Regulatory Consistency Requirements in International Trade.

Our most recent Fall 2017 Issue, Vol. 49.3, published in November 2017, includes the following noted scholars:

- ◆ Richard Epstein of New York University Law, Dual Sovereignty Under the Constitution: How Best to Protect States Against Federal Taxation and Regulation;
- ◆ Richard Fallon of Harvard Law, Federalism as a Constitutional Concept.

Recent volumes of the Journal can be found on our website: <http://arizonastatelawjournal.org/>.

NOTABLE ACCOMPLISHMENTS

We are excited to highlight the amazing accomplishments of Journal members during the school year of 2017–18.

JOURNAL DIVERSITY

As diversity becomes a priority in the legal community, our Journal continues to emphasize diversity among its membership as well. We are excited and proud to recognize the diversity that exists on our Journal. While we are all diverse in many ways and have different things that make each of us unique, the following are some of our diversity statistics that really stand out:

- Over 55% of our members are female.
- 50% of our Executive Board is female, and 100% of our 2L leadership is female.
- Approximately 20% of our members identify as LGBT.
- Over 40% of our members speak a language other than English.
- 76% of our members are the first lawyer in their family.

We are so proud of each and every Journal member and their accomplishments, diversity, and work ethic.
